
The Judiciary
State of Hawaii
1989
Annual Report

Executive Summary

With this thirtieth Judiciary Annual Report, we come to the close of the decade. We are pleased, as always, to have this opportunity to review the progress we have made in improving Hawaii's judicial system, and to look forward at the challenges of the future.

We in the Judiciary continue to find our motivation in our Constitutional mandate to provide a forum where all the people of Hawaii can have their disputes resolved in a timely manner. And even as we enter a new decade, the Judiciary's primary mission remains as it has been since the first days of Statehood: to constantly seek out those changes, improvements and refinements that will make Hawaii's judicial system the finest in the United States.

Keeping in mind the diverse needs of our constantly evolving judicial system, over the past year we have taken further steps in a continuing effort to improve Judiciary operations. These steps have touched each of the varied aspects of the Judiciary: our courts, administration, and support programs.

In the courts, we have been gratified to see the efforts of the past few years come to fruition, and continue to make refinements as we learn from our experiences. The recent reorganization of the Family Court has completely eliminated Family Court backlogs. We expanded on that experience and undertook an in-depth analysis of the workings of the District Court of the First Circuit, which culminated in a reorganization plan which will guide and serve us well into the 1990s.

We also saw our programs grow. The Program on Alternative Dispute Resolution, long an important resource to the Judiciary, has become the Center for Alternative Dispute Resolution, a permanent program.

The success of the Children's Advocacy Center in Honolulu has allowed us to begin the process of expansion to other islands. The Sex Offender and Intrafamilial Assault Unit is a new program offering guidance to families. It is structured similarly to the Intensive Supervision of Drug Offenders Program, which has also shown good results in its first year of operation.

In Administration, programs have been reorganized to allow us to move efficiently into the new decade and, by extension, into the next century. The recent report of the Legislative Auditor gave us new insights into the administration of the Judiciary, and has become a catalyst for change.

Throughout the decade, the application of technology has been a recurring theme within the Judiciary. Automation efforts will continue into the 90s and beyond, as they must if we are to remain responsive and efficient in the face of changes in society and our caseloads.

At the same time, the Judiciary enters the 1990s knowing that no single tool, and no single program, will allow us to perform all of our Constitutional and administrative functions. We rely on facilities: bricks and mortar, supplies, equipment, and all of the "hardware" of our system. We also depend on people. Clerical staff to keep abreast of the mountain of documents the system generates, as well as data and details. Court reporters to make a permanent record of courtroom activities for reference and appeals. Personnel to staff the wide range of positions that help the Judiciary operate as a system, from budget and planning to driver education, security, and counseling.

The measure of our success over the past decade, and for the decade to come, is how well the elements of the Judiciary work together to serve a single purpose: the swift, efficient delivery of justice in a growing, changing state.

We have much to be proud of, and much to work toward. And we will remain unswerving in our dedication to serving the people of Hawaii.

Sincerely,

HERMAN LUM
Chief Justice

ADJUSTING TO CHANGING DEMANDS

Improving the delivery of court services to the public is an on-going process. Refinements in the courts—the Judiciary's primary point of contact with Hawaii's people—continued throughout the year.

Public response to the one-day, one-trial juror program, initiated in the First Circuit in January 1989, has been overwhelmingly favorable. By reducing the juror service period from 30 days to a single day or a single trial, the program has been very successful in reducing the personal and financial burden on each potential juror. At the same time, the First Circuit jury pool now represents a much better cross section of the population.

Still, the new system's great public success has come at some cost to the Judiciary. Under the 30 day jury term, 9,000 jurors rendered service in an entire year. In the past year, 30,600 jurors were required.

As the number of jurors increased, so did the strain on facilities. Because as many as four to five hundred jurors may appear on a single day, the jury lounge has proven to be inadequate. The large groups that are called in have made it necessary to extend staff and facility schedules. And parking, always at a premium near the Circuit Court Building, is an on-going problem.

But these issues have not deterred the Judiciary from its dedication to the program. In light of the program's success in making jury service less burdensome on the public and presenting a greater pool of qualified jurors, the Judiciary remains committed to the process of refinement. As the other circuits prepare to adopt the one-day, one-trial system in July 1990, the Judiciary is working to meet the challenges that the new system presents.

In the Family Court, efforts to streamline operations have been an unqualified success. The recent court reorganization has brought unparalleled efficiency to court operations across the board. An outstanding example is the elimination of the Family Court case backlog. Where in the past a domestic violence case may have taken six months to come to trial, such cases are now brought to trial in 30 days. In the next fiscal year, the court will become still more responsive as a state-wide Family Court computer system goes into operation.

The promise of court reorganization is now being tested in the District Court of the First Circuit. Following a ten-month study by the consultants who assisted the Family Courts, the District Court has adopted a plan of reorganization touching all aspects of court operations.

An important step in making the District Court more responsive to its caseload is the creation of three distinct divisions within the court. The Civil, Criminal/DUI and Traffic/Rural Divisions will be responsible for management of the caseload in each division.

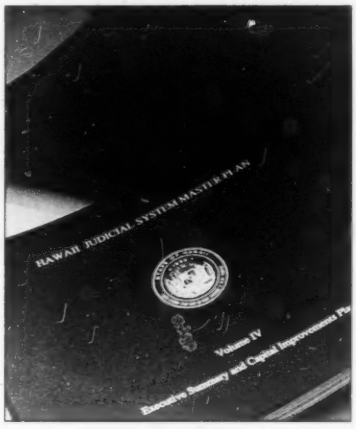
Even as plans to reorganize the District Court of the First Circuit were being developed, the number of drunk driving cases continued to mount. With two District Court courtrooms dedicated solely to DUI trials, the Judiciary is committed to seeking legislative solutions to the growing caseload.

In the First Circuit, the adoption of the one day-one trial juror term has meant a threefold increase in the number of jurors called to serve. The resulting strain on facilities is amply balanced by great public satisfaction.

the creation of division-specific benchbooks, and the creation of division calendars. All of this will make the divisions more sensitive to the demands of their specific caseloads, allowing for greater efficiency in case handling.

The court will also streamline operations by creating a new framework for the handling of traffic cases, which account for more than 90% of the court caseload. A new, simplified bail schedule will allow traffic offenders to avoid court appearances in many cases. And, where court appearances are necessary, a unified arraignment and trial process will eliminate the need for multiple court appearances.

Through a mix of organizational approaches, the entire Judiciary continues to prepare for the challenges of the 1990s and beyond.



The Judiciary's comprehensive facilities master plan became its award winning facilities master plan when the plan received the American Institute of Architecture's 1989 award for excellence in the category of Architecture for Justice. The award also marked the first time the AIA presented an award for the excellence of a judicial system plan, rather than the design of a specific facility. The master plan projects the Judiciary's courthouse needs through the year 2005.

CONTINUING A COMMITMENT TO PUBLIC SERVICE

As the number and range of cases before Hawaii courts continue to grow, so too must the Judiciary programs which support court operations. The fiscal year has seen continued growth in a variety of programs.

The Program on Alternative Dispute Resolution reached a significant milestone when Act 346 of the 1989 Legislature made the program a permanent part of the Judiciary. Now, as the Center for Alternative Dispute Resolution, it is ensured a continuing role in assisting in the efficient handling of the Judiciary caseload.

Under the new law, the Center is responsibile for helping to bring about effective, timely and voluntary resolution of disputes; reducing public and private costs of litigation; and increasing satisfaction with the justice system.

Act 346 also added a new statutory mandate to the Center's operations. Along with offering continuing assistance in areas such as the Court Ordered Arbitration Program, the Center will provide consultive resources and technical assistance in cases that affect the public interest or the work of state or county agencies.

The latter category includes public disputes involving the allocation of public resources or the siting of public facilities, and complex cases involving multiple parties or formidable technical, procedural or factual issues. Compflicated, high-profile cases such as the Aloha Stadium construction litigation and heptachlor lawsuits are examples of the kind of disputes in which the Center will continue to find itself involved.

Success at the Children's Advocacy Center has also resulted in an expansion of services. The Advocacy Center's multi-agency approach, offering a central location and comforting setting for interviewing and treating sexually abused children, has become an important resource in the First Circuit.

Over the past year, the Children's Advocacy Center began preparing to make its services available in all circuits.

The cooperation and participation of local and business communities has always been vital to the creation and continued success of the Advocacy Center. With the cooperation of neighbor island communities, public/private partnerships and Friends of the Children's Advocacy Center organizations have been created on Maui and Hawaii. Facilities have been set up in temporary locations on Maui, Kauai, and Hawaii, and possible permanent sites have been located in Hilo, in Kona, and on Kauai.

Over the next few months, preparations will continue with training for Advocacy Center personnel in neighbor island circuits. In Spring of 1990, the first of the neighbor island Centers will open on Maui.

Another program directed at victims of sexual abuse and their families is the Adult Probation Division's Intrafamilial Assault Unit. Like Adult Probation's Intensive Supervision for Drug Offenders Program, the Intrafamilial Assault Unit is designed to reduce and prevent crime by offering both counseling and intense, specialized supervision to at-risk offenders.

The Intrafamilial Assault Unit grew out of a Sex Offender Master Plan which was funded by the 1989 Legislature. Together, the Sex Offender Master Plan and the Intrafamilial Assault Unit reflect the Judiciary's continuing effort to provide more focused, directed, and effective supervision programs for abusers who pose a risk of repeat offenses.

Fiscal year 1988-89 saw the construction of the Family Court's status offender shelter on land adjacent to the Alder Street detention home. Now nearing completion, the new facility will provide shelter for runaway or incorrigible youths whose offenses are not crimes per se, but arise out of their status as juveniles.

The Center for Alternative Dispute Resolution continued assist in the settlement of complex cases through the fiscal year. In Kahala, a dispute over building setbacks led to a class action lawsuit. The Center coordinated the efforts of mediators, who worked with the numerous parties concerned and settled the dispute without the need for litigation.

Focus: Administration

IMPROVING ADMINISTRATIVE ORGANIZATION

In response to both internal and external forces, the Judiciary administration has undergone significant changes. Perhaps the most important single change has resulted from the implementation of an extensive administrative reorganization which more clearly delineates line and staff functions.

Circuit, District and Family Court administrative judges continue to offer supervision over their courts' cases and judges. In addition, they are now responsible for the overall administration of their respective courts, including personnel, budgetary and fiscal requests. Chief court administrators manage and oversee detailed administrative matters of the court under the supervision of the administrative judges.

Under this new organization, the office of the Administrative Director continues to administer all centralized support functions. As a result, the Administrative Director is now responsible for the statewide administrative functioning of the Judiciary, while each administrative judge has responsibility for the total workings of his court.

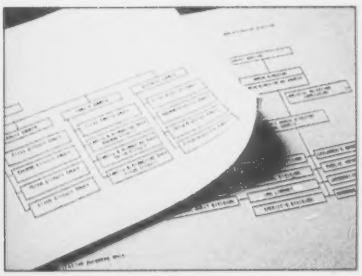
The reorganization of administrative offices includes:

- Establishing a Planning and Budget Division to serve as the center for statewide Judiciary planning, budgeting, capital improvement coordination, and program evaluation.
- Placing facilities management and the printshop under the Fiscal and Support Services Division, which is responsible for centralized fiscal and administrative services, as well as contracts and purchasing.
- Creating a Data Processing and Information Division which will centralize Judiciary computer systems and data processing.
- Transferring the Internal Audit Office from the Budget and Fiscal Office to the office of the Administrative Director, thus allowing the Judiciary to develop and maintain a more independent system of internal control.

Another catalyst for change within the Judiciary Administration has been the Management and Financial Audit of the Judiciary prepared by the Legislative Auditor and presented to the Judiciary at the start of the 1989 legislative session.

While many of the Auditor's recommendations called for changes which the Judiciary was already pursuing, others made the Judiciary take a fresh look at its administrative structure and procedures.

A product of the 1988 Legislative session, the Report of the Legislative Auditor offered a new perspective on Judiciary operations. In 1989, the Report became a catalyst for change within the Judiciary, and will continue to serve as a guide as the Judiciary approaches the next century.



A reorganization of administrative functions will allow the Judiciary to remain responsive to its changing needs in the coming years. Under a plan created with the assistance of the judges themselves, Administrative Judges are responsible for the workings of their courts, relying on court administrators to implement policies. Administrative programs have been restructured as well, allowing for greater efficiency and growth.

The Judiciary's initial response to this report was in the form of actions, taken or being taken, on more than 50 of the Auditor's recommendations. There are still other projects, however, that represent more formidable financial and technical challenges, calling for careful work over a longer term.

Combined with the plan for administrative reorganization, the audit is bringing about changes that will give new vitality to Judiciary operations, and new flexibility in approaching the challenges of the coming decade.

POLISHING OUR CROWN JEWEL

After 10 years of extensive renovation and restoration work, Ali'iolani Hale, the flagship facility of the Hawaii State Judiciary, began to emerge this past year from under scaffolding and protective drapes with a grand new look: a repaired and burnished exterior, a magnificently restored and renewed interior, and freshly landscaped grounds. The historical building now boasts a beautifully restored Supreme Court courtroom on the second floor, in which an imposing new koa wood court bench and the new official seal of the Hawaii Supreme Court are the center of focus. On the ground floor, the old rotunda is refinished in marble and a new Judiciary History Center stands in the wing.

The History Center opened to the public in September, 1989, and serves as an educational facility offering an overview of the early days of Hawaii law. Its outstanding features include an audio-visual presentation examining the history of Hawaiian water rights, and a renovated courtroom recreating Ali'iolani as it was in 1913. The funding that made the History Center a reality came from various sources, including the National Endowment for the Humanities, the State Legislature, and the Friends of the Judiciary History Center.

Resplendent with the warm glow of polished koa, the Supreme Court courtroom has become a showpiece in Ali'iolani Hale.

The new landscaping fronting Ali'iolani Hale features the return of the stately royal palms encircling the Kamehameha statue. The original palms were removed in 1967 after a group of tree trimmers, hired by a man posing as a government official, "decapitated" them.

The Judiciary History Center offers a look at the development of the modern Hawaiian legal system.

Focus: Justice Edward H. Nakamura

DEDICATION TO EXCELLENCE

For seven years, the makeup of the Hawaii Supreme Court has remained unchanged—the longest such period since Statehood. Now the process of change within the court begins again with the retirement of Justice Edward H. Nakamura in December 1989.

Justice Nakamura ends a ten year career on the high court which began with his appointment by Governor George Ariyoshi in 1980. At that time, The Honolulu Star Bulletin described him as "one of Honolulu's best-known labor lawyers," and his nomination received strong support in Senate confirmation hearings.

During his term, Justice Nakamura became an important voice on the Supreme Court, authoring opinions in several key cases. Among them is Kinoshita v. Canadian Pacific Airlines, Ltd., in which the court ruled that an employer's written handbooks and policies can be considered binding contracts under certain circumstances. That decision protects many employees who are not covered by collective bargaining agreements or formal employment contracts.

More recently, Justice Nakamura wrote the dissenting opinion in Kaiser Hawaii Kai Development Co. v. City and County of Honolulu, popularly known as the Sandy Beach initiative case. Defending the public's right to make zoning decisions through the initiative process, Justice Nakamura's dissent was based in large part on his confidence in the wisdom of the general public: in his words, he neither bears a "distrust of democracy nor subscribe[s] to the notion that political decisions rendered directly by the electorate . . . are devoid of civic virtue."

Following service in the United States Army, Justice Nakamura graduated from the University of Hawaii in 1948. He obtained his Juris Doctorate degree from the University of Chicago School of Law and was admitted to the Hawaii bar in 1951. Justice Nakamura practiced law with the law firms of Bouslog and Symonds (1951-1979) and King, Nakamura, Nakamura and Takahashi (1979-1980).

In addition to his legal work, Justice Nakamura has dedicated time to community service. He served on the University of Hawaii Board of Regents from 1964 through 1971, and as Board Chairman from 1967-1968. From 1972 through 1976, he served on the Hawaii Committee for the Humanities. He has also served on the Board of Directors of the Hawaii Bar and several Bar committees.

Courts of Appeal

The Judiciary's appellate level is composed of the Supreme Court and the Intermediate Court of Appeals (ICA), and hears appeals from all trial courts, as well as specific State boards and agencies.

All appeals are filed with the Chief Clerk of the Supreme Court. The assignment judge, appointed by the Chief Justice from the appellate level, assigns cases to either the Supreme Court or the ICA. Generally, cases assigned to the Supreme Court involve the formulation and the development of the law, while cases assigned to the Intermediate Court of Appeals involve possible trial court error or the application of settled law.

With rare exceptions, court rules mandate that Supreme Court decisions be rendered within a year of oral argument and that ICA decisions be rendered within six months.

Upon request by any party to the proceeding, the Supreme Court has the discretion to review a decision rendered by the Intermediate Court of Appeals. Forty-two such requests were made in fiscal year 1988-89; thirteen cases were accepted for review.

Actions Filed: Primary case filings in the Courts of Appeal numbered 790 during the 1988-89 fiscal year—730 appeal filings and 60 original proceedings. This represents a 5% decrease in filings from the 1987-88 fiscal year for primary cases, which include original proceedings as well as appeals from trial courts and government agencies.

Supplemental proceedings, which arise out of primary cases, are motions, special stipulations, or applications for certiorari. Supplemental proceeding filings stood at 2,343 for fiscal year 1988-89.

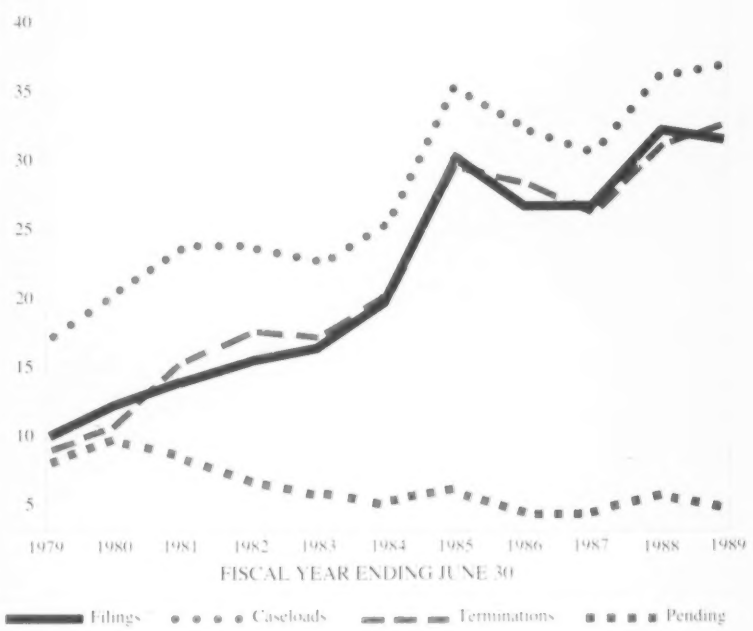
Number of Cases (In Hundreds)



Terminations: The Courts of Appeal terminated 887 primary cases during fiscal year 1988-89, in contrast to 738 primary cases terminated in the previous fiscal year; this reflects a 20% increase in the termination of primary cases. Terminations of supplemental proceeding increased from 2,333 in the previous fiscal year to 2,345 in fiscal year 1988-89.

Status of Pending Cases: There were 409 primary cases and 17 supplemental proceedings pending in the Courts of Appeal at the end of the fiscal year. Of these 426 cases, 67% were being briefed, 19% were ready to be scheduled for hearing or, in the case of supplemental proceedings, ready and awaiting decision without further hearing, 4% were set for hearing, and 10% had been taken under advisement and were awaiting decision.

The Supreme Court

The Supreme Court is the highest court in the State, with original and appellate jurisdiction to determine questions of law, and mixed questions of law and fact.

Actions Filed: During fiscal year 1988-89, the Supreme Court saw 787 primary cases filed, a decrease of 6% over the prior year; of these, 13 were cases previously decided by the Intermediate Court of Appeals and redocketed to the Supreme Court for review. The 2,296 supplemental proceedings filed before the Supreme Court represent an increase of 1% over fiscal year 1987-88.

Terminations: Terminations of primary cases increased 22%, from 729 cases in Fiscal year 1987-88 to 886 cases in fiscal year 1988-89. This included 137 cases which were assigned to the Intermediate Court of Appeals.

Status of Pending Cases: At the end of the fiscal year, 372 primary cases and 15 supplemental proceedings were pending. Of the primary cases, 76% (284) were being briefed, 12% (43) were ready to be scheduled for hearing, 5% (17) were set for hearing, 4% (16) had been argued and taken under advisement, and 3% (12) had been taken under advisement without oral argument. All pending supplemental proceedings were complete and awaiting decision.

The Intermediate Court of Appeals

The second highest court in the state, the Intermediate Court of Appeals (ICA) shares concurrent jurisdiction with the Supreme Court in reviewing legal matters brought before the Courts of Appeal. Where the Supreme Court usually reviews matters involving the formulation of the law, the Intermediate Court of Appeals usually reviews trial court decisions for errors, and seeks to correct such errors.

The Supreme Court may review a decision of the ICA upon the request of a party to the proceedings, but the Supreme Court employs discretion in assessing the merits of each such request.

Actions Filed: A total of 140 primary cases and 48 supplemental proceedings were filed in the Intermediate Court of Appeals in fiscal year 1988-89. This represents a 4% increase in filings over the previous fiscal year. Primary proceedings are assigned to the Intermediate Court of Appeals from the Supreme Court, while supplemental proceedings may be either filed directly with the ICA or transferred from the Supreme Court.

Terminations: During fiscal year 1988-89, the Intermediate Court of Appeals terminated 83% of its total caseload. That figure includes 138 primary cases and 48 supplemental proceedings.

Status of Pending Cases: Pending at the end of fiscal year 1988-89 were 37 primary cases, 21% of the total ICA caseload for the year, and two supplemental proceedings.

Of the total pending cases, 59% were ready to be scheduled for hearing, or, in the case of supplemental proceedings, ready and awaiting decision, 8% had been argued and taken under advisement, and 3% had been taken under advisement without argument.

Trial Courts

Hawaii's trial level is comprised of the Circuit Courts, the District Courts, the Land Court, and the Tax Appeal Court. The Family Courts are included in the Circuit Courts. With the exception of the Land and Tax Appeal Courts, which are located in Honolulu only and serve the entire State, Hawaii's trial courts function in four judicial circuits that correspond approximately to the geographical areas served by the counties.

The First Judicial Circuit serves the City and County of Honolulu, which includes the island of Oahu and the settlement of Kalawao on Molokai. Seventeen circuit judges, fourteen district judges, eight Family Court judges, and twenty-four per diem judges—five of whom serve the Family Court—are designated to serve a de facto population of 902,700.

The Second Judicial Circuit consists of Maui County, which includes the islands of Maui, Molokai (excluding the settlement of Kalawao), and Lanai. Three circuit judges, four district court judges, and six per diem judges serve a de facto population of 124,900.

The Third Judicial Circuit, divided into the districts of Hilo and Kona, administers Hawaii County. Three circuit judges, three district judges, and four per diem judges serve a de facto population of 126,300.

The Fourth Judicial Circuit is no longer used as a circuit designation. The Third and Fourth Circuits merged in 1943.

The Fifth Judicial Circuit serves the County of Kauai, which includes the islands of Kauai and Niihau. One circuit judge, two district judges and three per diem judges serve a de facto population of 64,900.

The Circuit Courts have general jurisdiction in civil and criminal matters. They have exclusive jurisdiction over jury trials, probate, guardianship, criminal felony trials, and civil cases where the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000. In addition, the Circuit Courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Courts in civil non-jury cases where the amount in controversy is between $5,000 and $10,000. Jurisdiction also extends over mechanic's and materialman's liens, naturalization, and misdemeanor violations that are transferred from the District Courts for jury trials.

Actions Filed: Filings in the Circuit Courts Proper totaled 13,720 cases in fiscal year 1988-89, a slight increase over the 13,588 cases filed in the previous fiscal year. Of the cases filed, 40% (5,524) were civil cases, and 27% (3,763) were criminal cases.

Terminations: During fiscal year 1988-89, the Circuit Courts terminated 15,079 cases, or 30% of the total caseload.

Status of Pending Cases: At the end of fiscal year 1988-89, a total of 32,250 cases were pending in the Circuit Courts Proper. That represents a decrease of 5% from the 36,968 cases pending at the end of fiscal year 1987-88.

The Adult Probation Division provides pre-sentence investigations and supervision of persons placed on probation or subject to court-ordered control. In the First Circuit, the Adult Probation Division operates as a separate unit attached to the Circuit Courts, because of the volume of its caseload. In the Second, Third and Fifth Circuits, however, adult probation functions are placed under the Family Courts.

Statewide reporting of Adult probation activity showed that there were 2,618 investigations completed during fiscal year 1988-89. In supervision cases, where persons were placed on probation or subject to court-ordered control, including offenders released from the Hawaii State Hospital, there were 1,582 new placements added to the 6,823 cases pending from the previous year. Of these, 1,399 cases were closed, leaving 7,006 open at the end of the fiscal year.

Family Court, A Division of Circuit Courts

The Family Courts were established to deal specifically with problems arising in the family environment. While directing trials for juvenile offenders, including traffic offenders, the Family Courts also administer hearings for domestic situations and marital actions. Cases may include truancy and educational neglect, abandonment, spouse and child abuse, divorce, custody and paternity suits. The Family Courts also encompass Detention Homes as well as the Juvenile and Family Crisis Services Branch which provides counseling to youths and their families.

Actions Filed: A total of 39,950 cases were filed in the Family Courts in fiscal year 1988-89, a decrease of less than 1% over the previous fiscal year. Total filings consisted of 32,546 primary cases and 7,404 supplemental proceedings.

Terminations: Terminations totaled 34,450 cases in fiscal year 1988-89, a slight increase from the 34,433 cases terminated in fiscal year 1987-88. Among the cases terminated were 28,337 primary cases and 6,113 supplemental proceedings.

Status of Pending Cases: At the end of the fiscal year, 38,506 cases were pending, representing a 17% increase over the previous fiscal year.

District Courts

Operating as non-jury courts, the District Courts have exclusive jurisdiction over traffic cases, petty and criminal misdemeanors, and most civil cases involving less than $5,000. They have limited jurisdiction in civil and criminal matters and have jurisdiction concurrent with the Circuit Courts for civil matters where the amount in controversy is $5,000 to $10,000.

Actions Filed: For fiscal year 1988-89, 941,008 cases were filed in the District Courts around the state; that is a 10% increase over filings in the previous fiscal year. Traffic violations cases constituted the bulk of case filings, making up 92% of filings. Civil actions accounted for approximately 3% of filings, criminal actions 4%, and other violations 1%.

Terminations: A total of 892,480 cases were terminated in the District Courts during fiscal year 1988-89. Terminations in all areas increased over the year before, for a total increase of 16%. Specifically, the increases in terminations over fiscal year 1987-88 were 16% for traffic violations, 12% for civil cases, 15% for criminal cases, and 14% for other violations.

Pending Cases: The pending caseload in the District Courts at the end of fiscal year 1988-89 stood at 501,953 cases, reflecting an increase of 11% from the beginning of the fiscal year. By category, the increases were: civil actions, 16%; traffic violations, 11%; criminal actions, 4%; and other violations, 21%.

The major program components of the District Courts also include the Counseling and Probation Services Division, and the Division of of Driver Education.

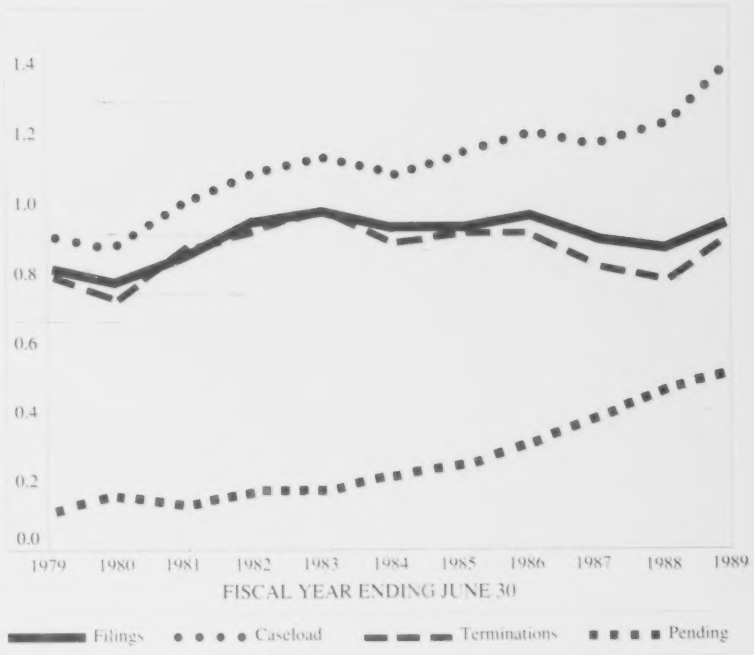
Number of Cases (In Millions)



The Counseling and Probation Services Division provides two services. It provides pre-sentence reports and makes appropriate recommendations to the District Court judges. Acting in this capacity, the Division added 1,884 new pre-sentence case to the 1,660 cases that remained open from the previous year. The Division completed action on 2,340 of these pre-sentence cases, leaving 1,204 cases open at the end of fiscal year 1988-89.

The second function of the Counseling and Probation Services Division is aiding victims of crime and supervising probationers. There were 4,675 new supervision cases during fiscal year 1988-89, which were added to 4,550 cases which remained open from the previous fiscal year. Of these cases, the Division closed 4,731 cases, and 4,484 cases remained pending at the end of the fiscal year.

The Division of Driver Education coordinates and administers a comprehensive traffic safety education program for both adults and juvenile traffic offenders. Services are offered on all islands, and include counseling, instruction, public information and community education.

Land Court

The Land Court is a statewide court of record that has jurisdiction over applications for original registrations of land. The court also presides over petitions for subdivisions, designations and deletions of easements, erosions and accretions of Land Court estates, and clarification and updating of the status of Land Court property.

Land Court registrars serve as court clerks, research and process applications, resolve disputes outside the court where possible, and offer research assistance to the lay, legal and business communities.

Actions Filed: In fiscal year 1988-1989, 14 contested cases were filed in the Land Court. Combined with the 60 cases pending at the state of the fiscal year, this gave the Land Court a total caseload of 74 cases for the fiscal year.

Filings of ex parte petitions, which are one-party petitions not requiring court action, totaled 4,000 in fiscal year 1988-89, a 29% decrease from the 5,634 filings in the previous fiscal year.

Terminations and Pending Cases: A total of 13 contested cases were terminated during fiscal year 1988-89, leaving 61 cases pending at the end of the fiscal year.

Tax Appeal Court

The Tax Appeal Court has jurisdiction over disputes between the tax assessor and taxpayer, including excise, liquor, income, property and insurance taxes.

Actions Filed: In fiscal year 1988-89, 107 cases were filed in the Tax Appeal court. In addition, 98 cases were pending at the start of the fiscal year, for a total Tax Appeal Court caseload of 205 cases for the fiscal year.

Terminations and Pending Cases: The Tax Appeal Court terminated a total of 72 cases, or 35% of the court's total caseload, during the 1988-89 fiscal year. 133 cases remained pending at the close of the fiscal year.

The Chief Justice appoints District Court and District Family Court Judges. The Commission has sole authority to act on reappointments to judicial office.

Nine members serve on the Judicial Selection Commission for staggered terms of six years. The Governor appoints three members, the Chief Justice appoints two members, the Senate President and House Speaker one each, and the membership of the Hawaii Bar elects two.

Financial Resources

The Hawaii State Legislature makes appropriations to the Judiciary for the Fiscal Year beginning on July 1 and ending on June 30 of the following year. More than 97% of the Judiciary's operating budget comes from the State General Fund and State Capital Fund. Other funding sources include federal funds, trust funds and special revenue funds such as assessments against insured motor vehicles.

The Legislature appropriated $61,437,968 from the State General Fund for operations during the fiscal year, and $4,000,000 was appropriated to the Judiciary from the State Capital Project Fund.

The Judiciary places monies collected from court costs, fees, fines, and forfeitures into the State General Fund for allocation and disbursement to various State departments through the Legislature. More than 76% of the court's revenues come from fines and forfeitures, while approximately 18% comes from court costs, fees, and other charges.

Excluded from the number of filings and terminations in the Courts of Appeal are the cases assigned by the Supreme Court to the Intermediate Court of Appeals.
Primary Cases are original cases filed in the Office of the Chief Clerk of the Supreme Court. Appeals and original proceedings are classified as primary cases.
Supplemental Proceedings arise out of primary cases. During the fiscal year, of the 2,343 supplemental proceedings filed, 2,296 were filed in the Supreme Court, and 47 were filed in the Intermediate Court of Appeals.

Primary Proceedings are original cases filed, representing direct contact with the public, so their numbers may fluctuate according to variations in population.
Supplemental Proceedings arise out of primary proceedings (such as Order to Show Cause for support in matrimonial and parental cases, proceedings in aid of judgment in civil cases, etc.). They consume a large part of the Courts' caseload activity time, but their numbers do not vary in direct relation to changes in population.
Backlog represents the number of cases pending at the end of a statistical period that must be carried over to become part of the caseload of the succeeding statistical period.
Circuit Courts Proper have jurisdiction over adversary cases (such as civil contract and negligence cases and criminal cases) and non-adversary proceedings (such as probate and guardianship, plus naturalization proceedings in all except the First Circuit).
Family Courts in each circuit have jurisdiction in all matrimonial actions, adoptions, juvenile matters, as well as matters involving incapacitated persons.

Data for the First Circuit, Circuit Court Proper, does not include inactive criminal cases (deferred acceptance of guilty pleas, deferred acceptance of nolo contendere plea, bench warrants, and cases suspended by the court).

1. Criminal cases filed in the Circuit Court Proper are felonies and misdemeanors. The latter type of case generally is transferred from the District Court when a jury trial is demanded by the defendant. Excluded are juvenile and adult cases which are under the jurisdiction of the Family Court. The data reflects only those criminal cases which were reported as disposed during the fiscal year, and excludes those which are still pending disposition such as cases which are awaiting trial, cases which are awaiting sentencing, and cases on Deferred Acceptance of Guilty Plea status.
   A case represents a defendant in a criminal case. Thus, if a criminal case which was initiated by an indictment names three defendants, for case counting purposes, this is reported as three criminal cases. When multiple offenses are involved, the most serious offense is selected and utilized for classification purposes.
2. Offense Charged represents the original offense named on the complaint or indictment. An offense may be amended by the prosecutor during progress of cases. Upon disposition of the case, the final offense may be the same as the offense charged, a lesser included offense, or one of the other offenses named on a complaint or indictment.
   The categories presented are those utilized by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (F.B.I.) in their annual series, Uniform Crime Reports.
   For illustrative purposes, some examples of sentences meted by the courts are listed below.
   A defendant convicted of two counts of burglary in the first degree was sentenced to (1) commitment in a correctional facility for a period of ten years and (2) a suspended sentence. The statistical reporting clerk selects "incarceration" as the sentence.
   A defendant was acquitted of a charge of murder, but convicted of failure to register firearm and sentenced to probation for a period of five years. The clerk selects the probation sentence.
   Sentences given to convicted defendants are authorized by statute. (HRS 706-605)
3. Criminal cases are dismissed for various reasons: the witness for the prosecution left the jurisdiction and thus was unavailable to testify, or the defendant was not given a speedy trial, or the defendant had successfully fulfilled the terms and conditions of the Deferred Acceptance of Guilty Plea, etc.
4. Defendants are acquitted by the jury or the judge after trial.
5. The judge may sentence a convicted defendant by suspending imposition of sentence. This sentence may or may not include payment of a fine or restitution.
6. A sentence of fine may also include restitution, but excludes cases where the defendant is also sentenced to incarceration or probation.
7. A sentence of incarceration in the case of a defendant convicted of a felony offense is to confinement in a community correctional facility (prison) for a period of five years or longer. This sentence may include payment of a fine or restitution. If a defendant is convicted of a misdemeanor offense, he/she is sentenced to confinement in a community correctional facility for a period up to one year.
8. Probation as a sentence may include payment of a fine, or restitution, or community service. In addition, a person sentenced to probation may also be ordered to serve up to one year in a correctional facility as a condition of probation for a felony offense, and up to six months for a misdemeanor offense.
9. Community Service is a relatively recent alternative provided by statute. The court shall not sentence a person only to perform community service...unless "it is of the opinion that such services alone suffice for the protection of the public."
10. Other disposition includes a sentence other than sentence suspended, fine, incarceration, probation or community service.
11. Transferred is not a final disposition. This disposition occurs if a defendant requests and is granted a change of venue. Proceedings are then transferred to another judicial circuit.
12. Remanded cases are those where the defendants initially requested jury trial. The cases were referred back to the District Court for action and disposition.
